

The new generation of Software

use state-of-the-art technology

Work fluently with X1.1 without interruptions

other. Add for example a new customer to the address database while creating an invoice in an extra window and sync your calendar with Outlook at the same time.

Regular feedback from our customers has helped us to make the processing of service specifications in X1.1 even more effective and accessible. The clarity of the information was increased and it has never been easier to create new quotations and invoices.

Both the user interface and mouse and keyboard control were adopted from established office products. Everything is instantly familiar - you immediately feel "at home".

The central component is drag & drop:
you want to move a position, selection or title to another position in your service specification?

Ideas become software

Simply mark and move with pressed left mouse button – done.

All windows can be individually configured in size, content and appearance. You use the field selection to determine which data should be displayed and which not. Directory trees, pop-up docking windows and extensive sorting options provide a quick overview.

An extensive online help with animated illustrations is available at any time.

mexXsoft X1.1 – an open system with dynamic interfaces

X1.1 was conceived from the beginning as an industry software open to all sides. All important data interfaces are available. All data that has ever been entered into the system can easily be exported, all tables saved in Excel format with just one click.

At the heart of mexXsoft:

The advanced search

The advanced search feature can be accessed from anywhere in the program. It provides access to all data and is the central connection between existing and new data-sets.

The document management – on track for a paperless office

Document management has been intelligently connected to all levels of the software with X1.1 and now provides a complete electronic construction documentation. It is able to manage all important file formats (emails, photos, plans, bills of quantities and PDF files, and much more).

Mobile work

Access your office computer with your notebook, tablet or smartphone - the remote desktop connection provides full access to all X1.1 features and is fully touch screen compatible. Work whenever and wherever you want, completely independent from the office. In addition, the mexXgo app also provides access to all relevant project data on the go.

Always up to date

mexXsoft X1.1 is the consistent next step to the previous version X1 and is constantly being updated, improved and expanded in close dialogue with our customers. Of course the upgrade is free for mexXsoft customers with a maintenance contract.
